Logic of assessment design:

The major assessments of the course are midterm and final exams. Weekly assignments (in the form of weekly quizzes) are assigned to give students continuous feedback on their learning. Normally, students who treat the weekly assignments and the corresponding feedback seriously are likely to do well in the exams.

COURSE POLICY

Plagiarism and Misconduct
No plagiarism will be tolerated! The University Regulations on academic dishonesty will be strictly enforced!

Please check the University Statement on plagiarism on the web: http://www.hku.hk/plagiarism/.

Academic dishonesty is behavior in which a deliberately fraudulent misrepresentation is employed in an attempt to gain undeserved intellectual credit, either for oneself or for another. It includes, but is not necessarily limited to, the following types of cases:

Plagiarism - The representation of someone else’s ideas as if they are one’s own. Where the arguments, data, designs, etc., of someone else are being used in a paper, report, oral presentation, or similar academic project, this fact must be made explicitly clear by citing the appropriate references. The references must fully indicate the extent to which any parts of the project are not one’s own work. Paraphrasing of someone else’s ideas is still using someone else’s ideas, and must be acknowledged.
The representation of work as solely one’s own when in fact it is the result of a joint effort.

Where a candidate for a degree or other award uses the work of another person or persons without due acknowledgment:

The relevant Board of Examiners may impose a penalty in relation to the seriousness of the offence;
The relevant Board of Examiners may report the candidate to the Senate, where there is prima facie evidence of an intention to deceive and where sanctions beyond those in (1) might be invoked.
